In her compositions the simple lines highlighted by the use of strong colours, define the artistic work of Norwegian artist and put the light on the meaning and the reflection about each of her artworks. She starts from the choice of themes to report on canvas, such as the philosophical sciences, the soul, the existentialism, but also the curiosity about the people with their own lives and challenges to deal with. In this perspective, she calls for the possibility that the viewers immersed in her colours and lines, can look at beyond themselves to achieve the knowledge. The colour is spread on large canvases, which is a peculiar feature of her artistic research, strictly acrylic due to its velocity.
